Two new ABDL fiction books!

A first ABDL 50,000 word novel by Nathan Wayne.

Adam Parker is a fairly average guy who found the girl of his dreams, but Adam has a secret, what he calls his dark side.

Adam has a kink for diapers and bondage. Ever since he was a kid, the drive to wear diapers has plagued his life and his desires aren't shared by his girlfriend Allison. In an attempt to please Allison, he attempts to leave his kinks behind, but when things get serious, his desires come back, and he must figure out how to deal with them.

Can he live a life hiding these desires?

Can he convince Allison to be a part of it?

Can they find a common ground or is breaking up their fate?

Read the story that parallels so many other ABDLs as they face their own 'dark side'. Haven't many of us been down similar paths to him?

Who am I? Am I an adult or a baby... or both?

The question of who we are as ABDLs is a big one and one not easily answered. And yet, it is THE question for us, just the same. While most people struggle with the question of who they are, ABDLs have to face the added complication of what AGE we are as well. The presence of regular regression - and for many, the constant desire to wear diapers and have some baby objects all the time, just makes it harder.

We have five books available that help you to answer elements of that enormous question. They approach the issue from psychology and also from relationships with others. Check them out and see if they can help you find some answers to the perennial question of...

Who am I?

If you wish to buy all five (in PDF format) they are available at the discounted price of just $30 - a saving of $12.
